Birthday Left Right Game

This is the story of the birthday party for Mr. and Mrs. RIGHT's youngest child. The RIGHT family wanted everything to be just right. Mrs. RIGHT was in a panic, as her idea of a right party is one where nothing is LEFT to chance.

Early that morning, Mr. RIGHT left the house. Mrs. RIGHT left the kids asleep and LEFT RIGHT after him. Mr. RIGHT made a RIGHT turn out of the driveway. Then he made a LEFT turn. Then another RIGHT. Then another LEFT. After a few more turns LEFT and RIGHT, he realized he had to turn on the GPS to get the RIGHT location.

Eventually, after going LEFT and RIGHT more times, Mr. RIGHT was finally right in front of the RIGHT Cake Shop.

He LEFT the car in the parking lot and walked inside. The shop owner came out of the LEFTdoor and said, "You've come to the RIGHTplace!"

The owner showed him chocolate cakes to the RIGHT, vanilla cakes to the LEFT, and one enormous cake RIGHT in the middle. Mr. RIGHT looked at the vanilla cakes to the LEFT and said, "I need the cake that feels RIGHT."

Finally, he found the perfect cake. It had chocolate on the LEFT and vanilla on the RIGHT. He LEFT the money on the counter and LEFT with the cake.

Meanwhile, Mrs. RIGHT had reached the grocery store. She turned RIGHT for snacks, LEFT for drinks, and RIGHT again for paper plates. She almost LEFT without the ice cream.

Both Mr. and Mrs. RIGHT arrived home right on time. They had LEFT the house a mess, so they cleaned LEFT and RIGHT until nothing messy was LEFT. Mr. RIGHT moved the couch slightly to the LEFT. Mrs. RIGHT said, "No, a little to the RIGHT!" They adjusted it LEFT, then RIGHT, then LEFT again, until it was perfectly centered.

They placed balloons to the RIGHT of the door and a banner to the LEFT of the window. The cake was placed RIGHT in the middle of the table.

Soon, the guests began arriving LEFT and RIGHT. One guest said, "I think I LEFT the gift in the car!" and ran RIGHT back outside.

Finally, all the guests gathered in the room and no one was LEFT out, so the child started cutting the cake, but there was no knife. Mrs. RIGHT had LEFT the knife in the kitchen. She moved to bring it RIGHT there but tripped and fell RIGHT on the cake. The cream flew to the LEFT and the cake flew to the RIGHT.

The child started laughing hysterically, and his laughter LEFT everyone laughing too. Mrs. RIGHT also joined the laughter and told the guests to enjoy the items that were LEFT on the table. The birthday was more about happiness than the cake anyway, and happiness made everything feel just RIGHT.

www.MyPartyGames.com